Breadegg

YOUR 15-MINUTE CALL

Fifteen minutes to see if we can build it together.

What the call is for, how it goes, and how to make the most of it.

- The Google Meet link arrives by email before the call.

HOW IT GOES

Three parts, five minutes each.

01

0–5 MIN

You

Tell us about your company and what you want: the problem, the goal and any deadline. In your own words, not a spec.

02

5–10 MIN

Gil

Gil introduces himself and Breadegg, and sketches a first idea of how we would do it.

03

10–15 MIN

Together

We agree on the next step: the subscription, a fixed-price proposal, or an honest no if we're not the right fit.

BEFORE THE CALL

Come with these, and fifteen minutes go a long way.

- What your company does, in one sentence.
- The problem to solve or the goal to reach.
- Links: your website, your app, or examples you like.
- A deadline, if there is one.
- Who else has a say in the decision.

YOU LEAVE WITH

- A clear next step, agreed before we hang up.
- If we're not the right people for it, we'll say so and point you somewhere better.

WHO YOU'LL TALK TO

Gil Veloza

FOUNDER

Breadegg is run by Gil. Every request is designed and built by the same person you talk to: no account managers, no handoffs.

TWO WAYS TO WORK TOGETHER

Monthly subscription

Design, web, apps and AI, one request at a time. Pause or cancel anytime.

Fixed-price project

Native apps and custom AI, with the scope and the dates in writing.

RECENT WORK Rackers · Política+ · The Silicon Guys · Travel Now Madeira